Why is This Test Important?

- Viral infections can be highly contagious; Epstein-Barr virus (EBV) is one of the most common human viruses and is found all over the world.¹
- There are various ways viral infections can spread, including, through close human contact such as coughing or sneezing, objects, and sexual activity.
- If left undiagnosed, viral infections can cause autoimmune disease, a condition in which the immune system attacks itself.
- Inflammation causes multiple symptoms across multiple body systems, leading to misdiagnosis and increased suffering.
- Many people are unaware that they have been exposed to or infected by the pathogens that cause these symptoms.
- The Viral Infections Panel can help you get to the root of chronic inflammation, address pathogens, and feel better.
